

HOME | ABOUT SF SIGNAL | CONTACT US | SUBMISSIONS | BOOKS RECEIVED

News Ticker May 5, 2016 in Movies: [Film Review] CAPTAIN AMERICA: CIVIL WAR Reinigorates the Marvel Franchise

Home » Interviews » [GUEST INTERVIEW] "Plan 9" Is Back! Matthew Warner Novelizes the Remake of the Notorious Zombie Movie

[GUEST INTERVIEW] "Plan 9" Is Back! Matthew Warner Novelizes the Remake of the Notorious Zombie Movie

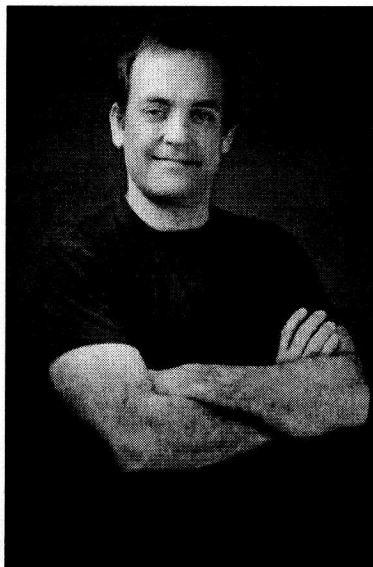

Posted on March 22, 2016 by Carl Slaughter in Interviews // 0 Comments

The second most famous zombie movie of all time is back with a shortened title: Plan 9.

When Darkstone director John Johnson did a remake of Plan 9 From Outer Space, he tapped his frequent collaborator Matthew Warner to write the novelization.

The original movie was made by the legendary B horror director Ed Wood. Wood was the subject of the eponymous movie starring Johnny Depp and directed by Tim Burton.

The remake stars the longtime Cinema Insomnia host Mr. Lobo and Charmed actor Brian Kraus. Dubbed "The First Black Scream Queen", horror movie staple Monique Dupree has a supporting role. Monique Dupree starred in 2 other Matthew Warner-John Johnson collaborations, The

Search

To search, type and hit enter

The SF Signal Podc

- POD SF Signal
- POD SF Crossi
- POD The Three

Stay Connected

Instagram Feed

